B. Revision Description

Dingley proposes to install two (2) new ink-jet printers for use in printing addresses, codes, and messages on magazines and catalogs. The ink-jet printers will use a solvent-based ink that contains methyl ethyl ketone (MEK), a VOC and HAP.

Some ink-jet printers are capable of being equipped with solvent recovery systems that recover, condense and reuse VOC/HAP based solvent vapors. Dingley looked into the application of solvent recovery systems but found that they were not available for the MEK printers they are proposing to install. However, if recovery units do become commercially available for these printers, Dingley will reevaluate their use.

Each printer has the potential to emit up to 1.3 tons per year of MEK. Dingley does not propose to change any existing licensed VOC or HAP emission limits.

C. Application Classification

This amendment does not require changes to any federally enforceable conditions and there will be no increase in permitted emissions, therefore this modification is determined to be a Part 70 Administrative Revision issued under Chapter 140 of the Department's regulations for a Part 70 source.

ORDER

Based on the above Findings and subject to conditions listed below, the Department concludes that emissions from this sources:

- will receive Best Practical Treatment;
